elsa to Their Stellar Wajesties and the Populace of the Great Kingdom of Northshield. I, Geirfold herre halvolindi Koloeinson, send greetings. I have done this history in the style of the Annals of Ulster and the Annals of the Four Wasters. Like those histories, the information in the early years is sparse and becomes more detailed as the years progress. That being said, even after the creation of the Principality of Northshield, this history is not comprehensive. It hits highlights and items that are important to the history, but

I'm sure that there could have been more to enter. The layout of the pages and the use of colored capitals is not specific to any particular known manuscript but does sample several various Irish manuscripts dating between the fifth and sixteenth centuries. Most Irish manuscripts will have text run from border to border, even having words split. I dislike this effect and so the right border will be jagged. The phrasing often refers to events happening in the beginning, summer, fall, spring, winter or end of a year. It must be remembered that the SCA year starts in Ω ay and ends in April. Thus seasonally the years runs summer, fall, winter, spring. The information contained within has been taken from a history on the Kingdom website, from the missives of current and past Royals and other Officers, from the Archives of the Kingdom \mathcal{C} -list, the on-line histories of other Kingdoms and sites of other Society members. In some cases it has been very difficult to find some information. For instance, the Gulf Wars site does not contain a history of the event nor do the Kingdoms involved. I have gone through our sites and with the exception of Gulf Wars 13, there is almost no information as to which side Northshield fought for or who won. This volume was presented to the Crown during the Spring Coronation of Their Highnesses Sir Morgan Olander and Baroness Lusche della Cassiago.

efore the Knowne World came to be, there were empty lands without knights, fair damsels, or Wighty Kingdoms with their Royalty. Then came the First Tournament. From there stretched a history of great deeds of valor and of kindness, conduct of chivalry and skill. Entered below is a history of the Knowne World with an emphasis on the creation of first the Principality and then the Kingdom of Northshield. As the Kingdom is still growing and flourishing, this history ends at or about the Coronation of Their most Stellar Wajesties, Siegfried and Elizabeth. The information within has been gathered from the histories of the various Kingdoms as can be found on Their websites as well as from the Society web pages, and others found on the web. The quote from Master Fishr is done with his permission.

Anno Societatis 1. The First Tournament is held at the home of Diana Listmaker on the First of Way 1966. This is the date upon which the Society calendar starts. Richard of Wort Royal and Warynel of Darkhaven are crowned the First King and Queen of what becomes the Kingdom of the West.

Anno Societatis II. Rewarding those who excel in the Arts and Sciences of the time covered by the Society, the Order of the Laurel is created. The premier members are Waster Alphonso de Castile and Waster Beverly Hodghead. Sir Ardral Argo ver Kaeysec becomes the First Knight and Sir Richard of Wont Royal the First Waster of Arms in the Order of Chivalry. The title of Duke is created in this year for those who have reigned twice. As there had not yet been a Queen that had reigned twice, the title of Duchess was an honorific for those who reigned with a Duke.

Anno Societatis III. In the fall of this year comes the forming of the Kingdom of the East. Maragorn the Artificer and Adrienne of Toledo are Crowned King and Queen. With Sylvanus Andere as Premier, the office of the Court Baron is created this year.

Anno Societatis IV. In the summer of this year Cariadoc of the Bow and Diana Alene become the Prince and Princess of the new Principality of the Widrealm. Later that year they are Crowned King and Queen of the Widdle Kingdom. Over the years this Kingdom will be called Widdle Kingdom, Kingdom of the Widdle and Widrealm. Atenveldt becomes a Principality with Robert Roundpounder and Katrina of Windermere being the First Prince and Princess. This is the first Kingdom to not have a directional name.

nno Societatis V. Atenveldt is elevated to a Kingdom. Richard Ironsteed and Felicia Wac Chlurain are crowned the First King and Queen. This was done in the winter of this year. The Barony of Castel Rouge is founded. Alixe of Livonia (later Pflau von Hirshfield) is made the First Baroness.

Anno Societatis VI. Hrafn Tolftungr and Asdid Stefansdottir petition the Board of Directors, henceforth referred to as BoD, for the creation of Jararvellir. The petition is granted and the BoD names these two worthies as First Baron and Baroness. Castel Rouge holds its first tournament. The Royalty of Widrealm attends. The Barony of the Great Bear is formed. The Great Dark Horde is founded by Yang the Nauseating. They first appear at the Widdle Kingdom's Crown Tournament held in the Barony of the Northwoods. Governing and Policy Decision Number 6 is passed which states that no religious ceremony may be held wherein a member of the Society is made to feel they must participate nor be seen to be sponsored by the Society.

Anno Societatis VII. The Barony of the Great Bear folds. Pennsic I is held in the late summer of this year. The origin of this war was a fight over the possession of a newly formed group. The loser of the war would gain possession of these Debatable Lands. However, it was decided by the BoD that a mundane state could not be divided between Kingdoms and thus the Debatable Lands must belong to the East. In a strange twist, Widrealm won the first Pennsic War. The order of the Pelican is created to honor those who give exceptional and continued service to the Society and the individuals Kingdoms. Originally this was the purview of the BoD and not the individual Kingdoms. The Imperial Pelican is Boncueur de Wyrobolan. Two years hence he will be elevated to the Order of the Laurel. In a most notable happening, the scroll is signed by the Royalty of the Knowne World, not just his home Kingdom. The title of Duchess is formalized for Consorts who have reigned twice.

Anno Societatis VIII. Sir Frederick of the West Tower and Anne of the White Tower decome the First Prince and Princess of An Tir. An attempt is started to create a territory separate from the Kingdom of the Widdle. The Barony of Castel Rouge holds the Tournament of the Carl of the North wherein Daidhidh na Uamh O'Cuah is made First Carl by Right of Arms. Officers are named, Oaths of Fealty are given, and letters of intent are sent to the BoD. The second Pennsic War is fought between the Kingdoms of the Cast and the Widdle. The war ends in a tie.

Anno Societatis IX. From the remains of the Barony of the Great Bear rises the Shire of Nordskogen. Carl Daidhidh na Uamh O'Cuah retires as Carl of the North. A tournament is held and Gordon an Seadaig is victorious and made Carl. He reigns for the first half of this year and is followed by Coinim an Uafasac O'Cuah in the second half. The BoD encourages the formation of the new group and suggests incorporation. Finding the process cost prohibitive, the forming of the Carldom as a separate identity from the Widdle Kingdom is adandoned. The Barony of Jararvellir imports the Feast of Bunstable from the Barony of Wadrone in An Tir. This becomes one of the longest running annual events in the southern region of Northshield. In the summer of this year, Prince Christian of Orange and Princess Denysa de la Wariposa become the founding Royals of the new Principality of Caid. Joseph of Locksley, the Atenveldt Laurel King, legalized women fighting in the Society due to Trude of Lacklandia's historical documentation of the existence of women warriors in the time period covered by the SCA. Pennsic III is fought in the late summer of this year being won by CDidrealm. The titles of Viscount and Viscountess are created for those who reign as the Royals of a Principality. The ability to create Pelicans is given to the Kingdoms by the BoD.

nno Societatis X. Trude of Lacklandia became the first female knight of the Society. Wichael of Boarshaven, King of the Widdle, abdicates a few months short of completing his reign, which is considered by many to be an unsuccessful one. His queen, Zarina of the Great Dark Horde, abdicated two months prior, unable to work together as ruling monarchs any longer. His actions shaped a great deal of Widrealm Law and custom such as the invitational Crown tournament as well as Curia involvement. Once again Widdle Kingdom is victorious in the fourth Pennsic War.

In the Principality of Caid sees the Under 18 Balin of Tor win the Coroner inspired by the 10 year old Lorissa du Griffin. λ s it had not been believed that a youth could win and there were no restrictions to age, they were allowed to reign. Due to outside legal matters and the strain placed upon the young Royals, the rule of being at least 18 years of age is instituted. In a breaking of the past three years, Pennsic War VI ends in a tie between the kingdoms of the East and Middle. The site is permanently set at Coopers Lake, Pennsylvania in what is now λ ethelmarc.

With great joy and amid Great Ceremony, Siegfried von Kulmbach and Bridei nic Gillechazzan are Crowned as the Premier King and Queen of the new Kingdom of Northshield. This comes in the fall of this year. As reported by Waster Fishr Hammondson:

The stage was awe-inspiring. Royalty from across the Known World provided the backdrop for the massive Griffinstone. Then began the dismantling. Their Stellar Highnesses were relieved of their burden of stewardship for the Principality of Northshield. The Barons and Baronesses of Northshield were called forward into the court of the Widrealm and were scripped of their titles and lands. The Baronial Coroners were placed upon the Griffinstone. Then the Peers of Northshield were called up one order at a time and dismissed from fealty to the Widrealm, the great pile of gold chains of chivalry placed upon the Griffinstone. The Greater Officers of Northshield were called forward and dismissed, the badges of office placed upon the Griffinstone. Northshield ceased to exist. The world was a lesser place, the sky a little darker for the loss of a shining jewel adorning its firmament. The Seneschal of the Society strode forward rowards the stage. Unrolling a scroll, he read a proclamation authorizing the creation of a new Kingdom, a land to be known as Northshield! The King of the Widrealm asked if there were people ficting to rule the new Kingdom. Wistress Cassandra and I came forth and verified that a great tournament had been held for just that purpose, and that the victor was His Excellency Siegfried von Kulmbach fighting for Her Excellency Bridei nic Gillechattan. They strode forward and affirmed their right to rule. Kneeling before the Griffinstone, they grasped the Crowns of Northshield and adorned their brows with these most visible symbols of Royalty.

Northshield was redorn!

The former rulers of the various Baronies of Northshield were called forward. They gladly affirmed their desire to hold these lands in fief for the new Crown, and the Baronies were recreated, Coronets taken from the Griffinstone and replaced on the proper heads. Then came the Peerages to reaffirm their allegiance to Northshield, Knights chains taken from the Griffinstone and returned. Finally the Stallari council was remade, the Officers regaining their badges of office from the Griffinstone. The massive Griffinstone was a gift from the Barony of Unser Hafen, Outlands, to the Shire of Schattentor, Northshield. It was freely given to symbolize the bonds that had grown between the two groups, and indeed, between the Kingdom of the Outlands and Northshield. It is now the keystone of our new Kingdom, the bedrock from which Northshield sprang whole and complete on this magical day. At least, that's how I perceived the events through the constant filter of joyful tears."
